

Martin Luther King Sr. Collaborative Resource Center

The Martin Luther King Sr. Collaborative Resource Center “helps families build better lives by providing comprehensive and integrated social support resources at a single location, with the goal of guiding families to self-sufficiency.” The Center provides employment, family economic, educational achievement, child and family, and housing services. As such, the Center assisted with the bail expenses for peaceful protestors during the summer of 2020. Taylor English attorneys personally made a combined contribution of $18,000 to the center to assist with these efforts.
